New Boston Sculptors Gallery Member
Takes Circuitous Path to Inaugural Show

(Boston MA): Boston Sculptors Gallery is pleased to announce the inaugural show of new member Christopher Abrams, from January 21 – February 22, 2015. Titled Space/Craft, full details can be found at www.bostonsculptors.com.

Educator, architectural model maker, one-time farmhand and carpenter, Abrams' work draws on a broad range of skills and experience to examine his fascination with the forms and language of science fiction. Space/Craft fixes on small-scale sculptures, heavily influenced by sci-fi props, pop culture materiel and architectural models.

Abrams' work is shown concurrently with work by Murray Dewart.

About Christopher Abrams:
A sculptor and multimedia artist whose work strives to provoke reflection and speculation on the nature of things, Abrams' work is broad-ranging, focusing on varied concepts like perception and agency, and draws on his background as an architectural model maker, carpenter, educator and amateur hardware hacker. Abrams graduated Harvard University's Visual Arts Program and earned a Master of Fine Arts Degree in Sculpture from the Massachusetts College of Art. He teaches Sculpture, Architectural Drawing and New Media courses at local institutions, including Brandeis and Framingham State Universities. He lives and works in Waltham, Massachusetts.
